Dr. Sergey Balandin

General Chair of Open Innovations Program FRUCT

Sergey.Balandin@fruct.org

www.fruct.org

Sergey Balandin is a general chair and founder of Open Innovations Framework Program FRUCT, which is the largest industry-to-academia cooperation framework in North-West Russia and Baltic region. He is an Editor-in-Chief of FRUCT proceedings and Newsletters, member of editorial boards of three journals and served as a TPC and organizing committee member of a number of conferences. Nowadays, Sergey Balandin is an organizer and chair of three international conferences. He is a winner of a number of awards and grants, holds 19 patents and has published over 50 research papers. Since 2008 Sergey Balandin is an Industrial Chair of IARIA UbiComm conference and author of an article that have received the IARIA UbiComm Best Articles Award 2009.

Sergey Balandin has over 15 years of industrial experience. His current position is a Principal Scientist at Nokia Research Center, Helsinki. His research interests include smart space technologies, embedded networks, routing and load balancing in large-scale networks. Sergey Balandin is leading Nokia's Academic cooperation program in Russian and CIS and since 2009 acts as a Nokia Siemens Networks university cooperation representative in Russia.

Sergey Balandin is a graduate of Nokia Research Center Ph.D. school and holds Ph.D. degree in Telecommunications and Control Theory from Saint-Petersburg Electrotechnical University "LETI". He holds M.Sc. degrees in Computer Science (Saint-Petersburg Electrotechnical University "LETI") and Telecommunications (Lappeenranta University of Technology) and finalizing International Business Management studies at Helsinki University of Applied Sciences. Dr. Sergey Balandin is an Adjunct Professor of Tampere University of Technology.